here until completion of housing built under the Wartime Housing Act.

It has been pointed out in representations to the Dominion government that the situation in congested Edmonton is not a normal one.

Legal officials expressed the hope Wednesday there will be no more evictions until the housing situation has been definitely relieved.

Eviction cases in Edmonton will be dealt with individually and allowances will probably be made in cases of extreme hardship. It was announced Wednesday by Cyril B. DeMara, rental administrator.

Mr. DeMara conferred Wednesday with Mayor John W. Fry, representatives of the Canadian Legion, and rental officials in the city who have been making a hard fight to have evictions frozen until such time as the 250 houses being erected by the Wartime Housing Limited are ready for occupancy.

Mr. DeMara stated that a general order, not being issued, would freeze all evictions but those pending will be dealt with individually.

EFFECTIVE OCT. 1

The rentals order effective Oct. 1 prevents rental evictions notices being given after Oct. 1 to tenants on a monthly basis and six months notice can only be given tenants to vacate between the months of August and September.

Mr. DeMara has made a personal inspection of rented accommodation in the city and he stated that few landlords are complying with the regulations on rental rates. He rented rooms as required by the rental administration.

No C.C.F. Mayoral Candidate Selected

CALGARY, Oct. 27.—(C.P.)—No mayoral candidate was nominated by the C.C.F. at the convention held in Calgary Tuesday night which selected three aldermen and three school board candidates for the civic election November 11.

Those nominated for aldermen were J. C. Watson, president of the Calgary Trades and Labour Council, S. Bowden and Mrs. Fay Peacock.

Peacock was nominated also for the school board, together with Miss Jennie Elliott and H. McCracken.

Bombs Knock Out Key Jap Air Bases

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southeast Pacific, Oct. 27.—Japan's air power has been driven at least temporarily from the northern Philippines by a sustained aerial bombardment that blasted out of action the enemy's three main airfields on Luzon, the island front reports in the Pacific.

Some 200 Allied warplanes dropped 150 tons of bombs on the main island of Luzon, and on the islands of Luzon and Karu airfields on southern Luzon. Saturday, setting off big fires and blowing up ammunition stores in a follow-up to Friday's 10-ton attack on these fields.

The raiders struck each base twice, concentrating only weak anti-aircraft fire and a single Japanese fighter, despite the fact that the two strikes, together with the near-by Balibale airfield, had been the main centers of enemy air strength in the northern Philippines.

Doctor Assessed Fine of $1,000 On Driving Court

WILFRED L. Graham was fined $1,000 or three months imprisonment by Judge A. M. Harvey in court yesterday.

Dr. Graham was charged with driving a car which went through a crowded street intersection and injured six persons, Sept. 25.

Justice Harvey said the severity of doctors in the city was his only reason for imposing a maximum fine rather than a prison term.

Moscow Talks Proving Success

MOSCOW, Oct. 27.—The Tri-power conference of foreign ministers went into its third day today and all signs pointed to continued satisfactory progress in the primary sessions among Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, U.S. Secretary of State Hull, and Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov and the subsidiary meetings of their military, diplomatic and economic advisers.

Even on questions where no definite agreement was possible, there were extremely valuable in clearing the atmosphere for the contemplated conference among Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Premier Marshal Stalin.

Experts on international affairs said that seldom has there occurred a conference of this kind characterized by greater frankness of desire to achieve unity and amity.

Soviets Close On Krivoi Rog From 3 Sides

340,000 at Stalingrad. The size of the force encircling at Krivoi Rog was not given in front reports, but was believed to be considerably smaller.

There was no confirmation that Krivoi Rog itself has yet been encircled.

On the ground, German motorized infantry and tanks, including one Panzer division from Italy, were counter-attacking as many as 10 times daily, but were being pushed back steadily through the streets of Krivoi Rog.

USING NEW TROOPS

Prisoners reported that several of their units had reached the front from Germany only a month ago, while other detachments were stationed in France up to last September. The Germans said reserves were thrown into battle immediately after alighting from trains.

The government newspaper Livestka said the Russians already have captured part of the great iron mines in the Krivoi Rog basin, the richest in European Russia.

Inside the Dnieper bulge, the Russians were overrunning German positions everywhere, breaking through the Nazi rear guards covering the retreat almost at will. The German front on the approaches to the Crimea, to the south, also was reported caving in.

LEADS PARADE

The official German news agency DNB in a Berlin broadcast acknowledged that the Soviets enlarged their breaches in the Melitopol area above the Crimea in "violent, bitter fighting."

The German front inside the Dnieper bend now has been broken.

The 36-year-old, husky former fugitive, asserting he wanted to help solve the killing of my wife, waived extradition in Toronto last night and immediately was taken back to New York. The party, however, was delayed in Buffalo by travel priorities.

After five hours sleep and a leisurely breakfast in a Buffalo hotel, they left by bus for Buffalo airport to board an American Airlines plane.

Before boarding the train at Toronto that took the party to the international border, Longman said he was glad "to go back and help clear up the case."

"I want to help the authorities all I can," he said, adding that he did not know of the murder until he read accounts of the brutal slaying of the 25-year-old cafe society party-girl in the newspapers at Toronto, where he was taken into custody Monday.

COMPARE FINGERPRINTS

One of the first moves of police when Longman arrived in New York was to compare his fingerprints with those found on an antique brass candlestick which stood on a night table in Mrs. Longman's bedroom and was used by her assailant to beat her to death.

It was not until today that police let it be known that fingerprints had been found on the candlestick. Longman, who lived in Toronto

Elect Moderator Of Presbyterians

CALGARY, Oct. 27.—(C.P.)—One of the youngest members of the Presbyterian Synod of Alberta, Rev. R. A. Sinclair of Innisfail, was elected moderator at a session of the synod Wednesday evening.

Mr. Sinclair succeeds Rev. E. L. Garvin of Lethbridge.

Roosevelt Signs Bill to Increase Dependents' Grants

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—President Roosevelt signed yesterday legislation increasing United States service men's dependency allowances all along the line and providing for monthly payments of $30 for the first child and $20 for each additional child.

The new law, effective immediately, does not change the present allowance of $50 monthly for a wife, nor does it require any additional contribution from the service man, who will continue to pay $22 toward the monthly total if he has a wife, children and collateral dependents.

A program, beginning with communion service this morning in Grace church, an afternoon session of the synod and an open meeting in the church this evening to be addressed by Dr. Beverly Kitchen of Hamilton, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was approved.

Bracken Offers Thirty-Point Farm Program

wards post-war recovery and expressed his opposition to any move to amalgamate the two great railway systems of Canada. He felt that competition is desirable he said.

His 30-point program for agriculture, "to correct Canada's greatest social inequity" — included:

- 1—Federal co-operation with organized farmers and other representatives of the industry, agriculture could achieve something like full organization, the state must see its interests are protected.
- 2—A co-ordinated production and marketing plan, with steps to increase exports of surplus crops on the basis of international collaboration.
- 3—Increased farm prices, brought about by increasing the demand for farm products. Floor prices would be established for major export products.
- 4—Federal legislation providing for orderly marketing.
- 5—Better land utilization, and a national soil conservation policy.
- 6—Establishment of food reserves.
- 7—Study of existing credit institutions, and possible extension of them to meet farmers' needs. Adjustment of debts that cannot be met by competent farmers.
- 8—An integrated transportation system adapted to furnish the cheapest and best service, while maintaining the independent identity of the two major railway systems.
- 9—Assistance to farmers in obtaining the use of mechanized equipment, with state or municipal ownership of power equipment being considered.
- 10—Assistance in the development of educational and health services, in association with rural electrification, better roads and improvement of rural homes.
- 11—Steps to remove the fear that surpluses may drive prices unjustifiably low. The state must do the giving of food to other countries after the war, not the farmer.
- 12—Decentralization would be sought in administrative functions and controls, with local governments considering local problems. Federal legislation, if necessary, would make adequate provision for effective agricultural organization possible.

Mr. Bracken said a trained man would be appointed as federal agriculture minister and he would have an under-secretary, also trained. Should the minister be from eastern Canada, the undersecretary would be from the west and vice versa.

The agriculture ministry would have the duty of developing and administering a co-ordinated plan of production and marketing. A special foreign agriculture service would be established.

Mr. Bracken said a board of livestock commissioners would have power to regulate all aspects of livestock marketing.

RAISE FARM PRICES

"To do away with the risk of the all-too-common ruinously low prices for agricultural products and, at the same time, reach higher standards of living for all, we shall raise farm prices," he continued. This would be done by increasing the demand for them.

The problem of low prices arising from agricultural surpluses would be dealt with by, among other things, expanding export markets to the fullest extent possible, he said, adding that "we shall be prepared to progressively lower the barriers to trade."

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

So badly damaged by R.A.F. R.C.A.F. and U.S. bombing have been the 17 German cities shown here in heavy type that the R.A.F. considers them knocked out of the war. The 18 other cities shown have been heavily hit too, await their turn for destruction.

"We shall set up a special export agency charged with the responsibility of promoting international trade, maintaining and expanding export markets for primary products, ensuring that domestic prices will not be lowered because a small surplus may happen to result in making low export prices apply to both, and developing a positive program of international labor relations."

With a view to furthering the exchange of commodities and better international understanding and goodwill."

Home markets would be increased by raising the purchasing power of the people and developing industrial uses for farm products. If necessary, a "stamp" plan, to ensure food supplies in sufficient for low-income groups, would be developed.

PREVENT FLUCTUATION

To prevent wide farm price fluctuations, a floor price would be established for major export products, and the producers would have the benefit of any advance thereon.

The marketing system for wheat might be merely to the advantage of the professional speculator.

To help reduce the cost of producing farm crops, Mr. Bracken said his party would reinforce existing legislation to curb excessive restraint of trade, take steps to insure that prices farmers had to pay were competitive, inquire into means of increasing the efficiency of manufacturing and distributing industrial and other goods and encourage farmers to purchase as well as market goods on a cooperative basis.

Existing and possible marketing costs would be studied, with continuous investigation and control of price spreads in the interests of producers and consumers. A Federal Co-operative Act would clarify the position of co-operatives with respect to taxation of savings and promote the practice of co-operative marketing and co-operation generally.

Mr. Bracken said it was proposed that food reserves be established to guard against shortages, and encouragement would be given the establishment of private as well as co-operative cold storage facilities.

"CONSTRUCTIVE AID"

The state would give "constructive aid" by surveying and classifying all farm land so the most efficient soil and cropping practices would be developed.

Provision for readjustment and reduction of farm debts would be made under federal legislation. Agriculture research would be encouraged and facilities extended, including a branch of the National Research Council service in the west.

In co-operation with the provinces, vocational training for rural young people as well as urban would be assisted.

He said the Progressive Conservatives would speed up and systematic plans by which the overhead cost to farmers of obtaining the advantages of mechanization might be lowered. State or municipal ownership of power equipment would be considered.

Decentralization of industry would be encouraged, with the location in rural areas of such small industrial enterprises suited to the locality.

The federal government, without interfering with provincial jurisdiction, would provide a measure of financial assistance so the provinces might make possible a higher standard of instruction in financially-weak school districts.

IMPROVE SERVICES

Co-operating with the provinces, the federal government would place and keep the health services of rural areas on a par with those of urban areas, at the same time seeking to raise the standards of both. Mr. Bracken said.

"Let us determine to use our fortunate position as food producers to accomplish three things much

Fliers Serving At Air Schools Receive Awards

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Air force headquarters announced last night that R.C.A.F. men serving at Commonwealth air training schools across Canada have been awarded the Air Force Cross for "valuable service rendered as flying instructors" while nine others received the King's Commendation for "valuable services in the air."

Also decorated were three R.A.F. men awarded the A.R.C. and three who received the King's Commendation.

A.F.C. AWARDS

Members of the R.C.A.F. awarded the A.F.C. with their next-of-kin and training school at which they instructed, included:

Squad. Ldr. G. A. Folkins, No. 11 S.F.T.S., Yorkton, Sask.; Mrs. G. A. Folkins (wife), Trenton, Ont.

Flt. Lt. J. E. Palmer, No. 5 S.F.T.S., High River, Alta.; Mrs. J. E. Palmer (wife), High River, Alta.

W.O. J. E. Short, No. 4 S.F.T.S., Saskatoon; Mrs. James E. Short (wife), Saskatoon.

KING'S COMMENDATION

Members of the R.C.A.F. received the King's Commendation, with next-of-kin and their school, followed:

Wing Cmdr. M. P. Fraser, No. 12 S.F.T.S., Vulcan; Mrs. M. W. Fraser (wife), Vancouver.

Flt. Sgt. J. O. Starrill, No. 15 S.F.T.S., Clarendon, Alta.; Mrs. M. L. Starrill (wife), Manton, Alta.

Wing Commanders R. D. Paxton (34 S.F.T.S., Medicine Hat) and Squad. Ldr. A. F. A. Underhill (3 P.I.S., Arrprior, Ont.), of the R.A.F., won A.F.C.'s.

Flt. Lt. C. Grayson (34 S.F.T.S., Medicine Hat), Flt. Lt. W. G. Powell (on east coast station), and P.O. S. J. A. Jackson (41 S.F.T.S., Weyburn, Sask.) of the R.A.F., were commended by the King.

BUILDING FIGURES

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Value of building permits issued by municipalities reporting to the Dominion bureau of statistics in September was $6,962,883, compared with $7,330,506 in August and $10,900,174 in the corresponding month last year, the bureau reported yesterday.

Ration "Swaps" Are Now Legal

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Now, when Mrs. Jones wants to borrow a pinch of tea, you can trade her a cup of sugar and do it legally.

Not that the practice has been frowned upon officially, but the Prices Board announced last night an amendment to its regulations which allows to permit neighbors exchange of rationed goods that have been lawfully acquired. The amendment is effective Wednesday.

Under the rationing order, gifts, loans or exchanges of rationed commodities have been prohibited as a "necessary provision" for "deliberate abuses and evasions" of regulations.

There's never been any intention, says the board, to restrict normal neighborhood exchanges in small quantities and no steps have been taken to stop them, although—on paper—they have been prohibited since rationing began.

Spitfires Damage

Foe Locomotives

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Spitfires damaged several locomotives on offensive patrol over northern France yesterday and typhoons attacked airfield installations at Bres-la-Veauce, it was announced last night.

The typhoon raid followed bombardment of the Bres-la-Veauce airfield Monday by R.A.F. medium bombers and Netherlands naval planes.

It was disclosed that Cmdr. Ed- die Baaker, commander of the Netherlands naval squadron of medium bombers, was shot down by Nazi anti-aircraft fire during the Monday attack.

The air ministry news service, meanwhile, announced that 43 Nazi night fighters were destroyed by R.A.F. bombers during forays in September—nine more than in the previous month.

TWO FLIERS KILLED

CALGARY, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Two English airmen were instantly killed yesterday, when their Currell training plane crashed about three miles southwest of the town of Bowden. The men were from No. 32 E.F.T.S., R.A.F., Bowden.

American Destroyer Damaged in Crash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(AP)—The United States navy reported yesterday that the destroyer Murphy was damaged severely in a collision with a merchant vessel in the north Atlantic. A part of the forward structure of the destroyer, a 1,700-ton vessel, was sheared off in the collision, but she was successfully towed into New York harbor.

Laborer Is Killed In Truck Mishap

LETHBRIDGE, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Caholovs Zabo, 34-year-old Hungarian laborer of this city, was killed instantly at No. 8 bombing and gunnery school R.C.A.F., here yesterday when a heavily-loaded truck backed into him and ran over his head and legs. Dr. J. S. Wray, coroner, said the accident was accidental and decided an inquest was not necessary.

"It's nice work if you can get it," remarked Hankbird man to the highest bidder, in town for a belated mid-summer hair cut. "Clipping coupons, I mean."

"You're all coupon-cutters now," chuckled Mr. Picobac. "Tea coupons, coffee coupons, sugar coupons, butter coupons, meat coupons..."

"Don't forget your Victory Bond coupons," advised Lee, the barber, busy with the shears.

"No more," agreed Mr. Picobac. "If I had a million dollars I would put it all into Victory bonds tomorrow."

"That's the difference between me and plutocrats like you," said Hank. "You can imagine having a million dollars but I can't!—Could you spare me a pinch of that famous tobacco of yours?"

"It's a mild... cool... sweet smoke," grinned Mr. Picobac, extending his handy pouch.

Picture Actress Sues Drug Firm

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Screen actress Joan Davis filed suit yesterday for $100,000 damages against a chain drug store firm, charging an employee placed improper directions on a prescription written by her doctor. She alleged a stomach ailment from which she was suffering became aggravated as a result, necessitating her remaining in bed for a week and interfering with her picture work.

C.N.R. Chief Invests U.S. Officer

It's news when a Canadian railway president invests a colonel of the United States Army with the eagle insignia of his new rank. This ceremony took place somewhere in northern Manitoba where Lt. Col. J. P. Fraim, officer commanding, United States Army Forces, Central Canada, with headquarters at Winnipeg, received news from Washington that he had been appointed full colonel. He was on a trip inspecting the Canadian National Railway's northern facilities with R. C. Vaughan, chairman and president. The investing took place in Mr. Vaughan's car "Bonaventure," which was taken as an omen of "good going" for the colonel. Born in Kentucky 33 years ago, brought up in Mississippi, Colonel Fraim's home, now, if it hadn't been for the war, would be in Beverly Hills, Cal. He has seen service in all parts of the world.

Among large subscriptions reported from Quebec were the Singer Manufacturing Co., $1,600,000; Shawinigan Water and Power Co., another $1,000,000; and Investors Syndicate of Canada Ltd., Winnipeg, $500,000.

Winnipeg reported a subscription of $850,000 from Investors Syndicate, with head office in Minneapolis, and Investors Syndicate of Canada Ltd., Winnipeg, $500,000.

Incomplete figures for canvases of the central region Canadian National Railway, indicate that in eight days 23,616 railwaymen invested $2,184,430, compared with 18,161 subscribers for $1,570,300 in the same period of the fourth loan, headquarters said.

Cities seeking 100 per cent of general savings and payroll savings remain in much the same order today, it added by Shawinigan Falls 88.5 per cent and Brandon, Ont., next with 84.2. garded doubtful whether it will be announced until the program as a whole is made public.

Meanwhile, there are indications that the cost-of-living bonus will move upward at the next adjustment, scheduled for Nov. 15 on the basis of the index figure for Oct. 2.

The bonus is subject to revision every three months and the maximum bonus now payable—$4.25 a week or 17 per cent of wage, depending on the wage category of which workers now are receiving as cost-of-living bonus will become part of their basic wage rate instead.

Indicative of the Nazi appreciation of the situation was the fact that the bitterest struggles of the Goretta, the prize was high ground which the Allies must control if they are to push the Germans out of the approaches to Trepia.

OVERALL PICTURE

The overall picture was one of the Germans falling back and the fighting in sectors where the retreat takes them to better ground, but in fierce struggles where the setback tended to affect the new line.

The belief was growing here that the immediate future of the Italian campaign will be determined on the Montegrone-Venafra-Vasto line.

The possibility of a major German counter-attack against the British, Canadian and American forces was emphasized repeatedly by military comment, because not only of the basic military situation in Italy but also of the German position in the war at large.

The commentator said the Germans now had lost their last hope of a victory at sea and of reversing the torrential trend of the war in the air.

MAY MEAN BLOODY FIGHT

There was no doubt in Allied quarters that if the Germans elected to make a big gamble in Italy, it would mean a bitter and bloody battle.

The British-Canadian Eighth Army captured Civita Castellana, 30 miles north of Rome, and Acquafredda, six miles southwest of Montanaro, in the advance.

Montanaro, a key position, the Montgomery's army reported the heaviest opposition around Trepia below Trepia, but added that its forces had gained three miles in this area.

Allies Pouring Arms Into Bari For Possible Balkan Invasion

By HENRY T. GORRELL

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

BARI, Italy, Oct. 27.—Allied merchant ships are pouring a constant stream of arms and equipment into this southern port for the next stage of the European invasion.

Gorrell could give no indication of what the "next stage" of the European invasion would be, but Prime Minister Churchill said in a speech in London last week predicted Allied forces would advance into southeastern Europe (the Balkans by winter).

As fast as they are unloaded, the ships push off again for North Africa and another land. There are no prospects of the ships returning home for many weeks, possibly months, in view of the urgency of their assignment.

Men and equipment also are being unloaded steadily at several other ports along the Adriatic and at Taranto on the Ionian sea, but it is Bari, which Benito Mussolini said in a speech in Rome last week, that sees the most activity. Its topographical features and railroads are being studied with military tactics.

Report Churchill Offered $250,000 For Story of War

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(CP)—The Daily Mail's New York correspondent, Don Iddon, reported in a dispatch to his paper today that an American publisher who he did not identify has offered Prime Minister Churchill $250,000 for his own story of the war to be written as soon as victory is won. Iddon stated that so far Mr. Churchill had answered neither yes nor no.

Training Camp Notes

By The Canadian Press

It's just about unanimous now, Coach Frank Boucher of New York Rangers says he believes the new Red Line at centre ice will improve National Hockey League competition by preventing powerplay tactics of previous seasons. Adding his vote to approval expressed by other N.H.L. coaches and managers, Boucher declares "there will be less shoving of corners and scramble plays because attacking defences will be forced to remain behind the rival blueline. At the same time, Boucher says, pretty passing plays should be revived."

Coach Paul Thompson of Chicago Black Hawks says he has only one major worry—whether amateur goalkeepers, Ned Hapton, 18, of Vancouver, and Clem Harner, formerly of southern California university, will stand

Girls' Basketball League Meeting Is Set For Friday

City Girls' Basketball League members have issued a call for a meeting of all girls interested in the sport to attend at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium on 103 street next Friday evening at 8 o'clock to consider the prospects for organizing a new league for the coming season.

Members of last year's teams, as well as representatives of any prospective new clubs are asked to attend. Suggestions will be welcomed as to how the league may be formed, whether senior and junior divisions, location of practice and game floors available, dates of games, etc.

The trophy will again be up for contest and rules arranged for same. The trophy was won by the Y.W.C.A. girls under Frances Gordon's management last year.

Any girls' team in the city, whether connected with school, church, store or other employment in the city or district is invited to send representatives to this meeting if interested in basketball.

Friday's meeting will probably show at least four teams ready to go. Those named are: (1) McDougall, (2) Clare Hollingsworth, (3) Y.W.C.A., (4) Frances Gordon, (5) Bassell, (6) Gwen Kiddle, and (7) Aircraft Repair, (8) Miss

Bombers' Great Ground Gainers

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—(CP)—Reg. Threlfall, Ignitee western football coach, says this year's edition of Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers promises a greater capacity for ground gaining than any team he has handled since coming to Winnipeg in 1938.

"They're not fancy," Threlfall said Tuesday about his current bombers, "but by putting together a lot of the greenies in the back yard—running the ball through the line—I'll take them in front of every club he's handled in Winnipeg."

Threlfall said his aimers are most effective when the enemy's 25-yard line "gives them the ball that close and they usually manage to get it across."

Football wasn't then the widely publicized game it is now, of course. The season further over the top of the football season would have to be considered now. But the fact remains that the bombers have rarely been postponed because of or played in poor weather.

Ebels knew this when he owned the Dodgers. Meteorological records of every big league burg for 15 years told him so. He advised colleagues to start the grind May 1, shake April postponements and get the break in October. NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—It's pretty late to be talking about the last World Series and pretty early to speculate about the next, but at long last the baseball magnates are getting around to the late Charles Ebbets' theory that October is a better month than April for baseball.

The fine weather which prevailed for this year's World Series further proved that Ebbets of Brooklyn was right when years ago he advocated a later start and finish.

Pat Egan Expects To Get Discharge

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—(CP)—The Gazette said Tuesday that Pat Egan, former stellar defenceman with Brooklyn Americans in the National Hockey League, would be given an honorable discharge from the army shortly for medical reasons and would join Detroit Red Wings for the coming season.

Egan has played defence on service hockey and lacrosse teams since his entry into the army.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27.—(AP)—A field of 10 two-year-old fillies, including almost every colt in the division now in training, was named overnight to contest the 26th running of the Selima Stakes which will feature the racing program at Pimlico today.

The Selima, which will have a gross value of $28,500 if all 10 colts are in the race, is contested at 1 1/16 miles.

Favored in the early odds was the Calumet Farm entry of Twilight Tear and Miss Keneledan. Second choice was Belair Stud's Thred O'Gold.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 27.—(AP)—Pitting three games in the last five minutes of play, the Cleveland Barons trimmed the Pittsburgh Hornets 6-3 in opening the American Hockey League season before 4,772 fans in the arena last night.

Eddie Emerton, 17-year-old rookie forward from Cornwall, Ont., and the veteran Alex (Bull) Cook, who will report to the United States Coast Guard in the arena last night, also played for the Barons. Lou Truile and Pete Horeck tallied for the Barons.

Cleveland took a two-goal lead in the first eight minutes but Pittsburgh rallied and knotted the score at 3-3 until the Hornet defence finally

Thorpe Covets Athletic Post At Oklahoma

SHAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Zim Thorpe, Oklahoma's great Indian athlete of yesterday, disclosed yesterday his longing for a berth in the athletic department of the University of Oklahoma.

"I want to help the state any way I can and I could do so there better than any other place," he declared. Thorpe recently returned to Shawnee, his old stomping grounds, to be near his boys who are attending Indian schools in the state. His home recently had been in Detroit.

He'd like to help the state a great athletic tradition about the University of Oklahoma.

Thorpe admitted he had talked with a friend who has been a personal campaign to have the Star and Fox Indian named director of athletics at the state school.

That Thorpe said a bit wistfully, would be "the finest thing I could ever do for."

The Thorpe fan, Tony Lyon of Louisville, is getting up petitions for state-wide circulation requesting the university regents to appoint him athletic director.

Thorpe's scores were Quackenbush, Richard and Shannon.

"Again—from Coast to Coast—it's HOCKEY NIGHT IN CANADA."

ON Saturday evening of this week the curtain will roll up on the eighth successive winter of Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts—fifteen, and apparently still the most widely popular radio classic of Canada's National Network.

Just a year ago, when a similar announcement was published at the opening of the 1942-43 hockey season, Imperial Oil made a promise that the broadcasts would again "carry on in the national service." Listeners will recall how faithfully that promise was kept—

FIRST: In continuing to provide millions of Canadian hockey fans with their favorite Saturday night entertainment;

SECOND: In continuing to provide the CBC and BBC with recordings of the play, to be "beamed" to London for re-broadcast to the men and women of Canada's fighting forces; and THIRD: In continuing to give war-service announcements and appeals exclusive priority rights over the time which normally would be reserved for advertising the Company's goods and services.

It is our purpose to continue that same policy throughout the coming winter.

THAT NEW "BREAKAWAY PASS"

The new long forward pass from a team's defending zone to centre ice has made possible this season by insertion of the following phrase into the Playing Rule No. 6, which still prohibits forward passes across the blueline: "except by players on the defending team, who may make and take forward passes from their own zone on the new 'centre line' without incurring an offence penalty."

Most hockey experts refuse to commit themselves very definitely concerning the probable effect of the new amendment. Our own Hot Store League is equally wary but offers the following cautious explanation:

"The almost continuous ganging attacks of the past two seasons have produced a flood of criticism. The new forward pass to centre ice is apparently designed to make such attacks too risky for constant use, and is thus intended to restore thrilling line rushes and clever passing plays. Naturally, it is also expected to increase the number of crowd-pleasing 'breakaway' plays. If it works as intended, it may turn out to be the most revolutionary development in hockey since the forward pass in the attacking zone was introduced in 1937. And strangely enough, that was the rule change which first made ganging attacks possible!"

Imperial Oil Limited has always been keenly aware of the importance of its responsibility in maintaining the tradition of "Hockey Night in Canada." But however important that responsibility may have been in times of peace, it is doubly so in time of war. With all the extra physical and nervous strain which war involves, the civilian hockey audience, ranging from 1,800,000 to 2,500,000 Canadian listeners alone, not only wants but very literally needs the mental refreshment which "hockey night" provides.

We need also have good justification in announcing that "again—from coast to coast—it's Hockey Night in Canada."

But civilians are not the only ones who enjoy these broadcasts. The boys and girls who serve at home or abroad in the navy, the army, the air force and the merchant marine include some of hockey's most ardent fans. Speaking last spring before a Canadian audience, a regimental commander back from overseas told his listeners: "More than anything else, the men in England want the hockey broadcasts."

Consequently we are glad to be able to announce that throughout the coming season of 1943-44, Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts will again be sent overseas through the co-operation of the CBC and the BBC.

Then there is that third form of national service to which our broadcasts have been dedicated—a service which has made them, in effect, a national bulletin board, carrying urgent war-time announcements and appeals to every corner of Canada. If you are a hockey broadcast fan, you must have heard many of those announcements during the past three winters. In fact, we know you've heard them, because your response to many of them has been really heart-warming.

And because we also know that you have come to look upon our hockey broadcast as your hockey broadcast, we think you'll be interested in the following brief tabulation, showing the extensive use which was made of our broadcasts by both governmental and civilian war-time departments and organizations during last season alone:

GOVERNMENTAL—34 separate announcements, 65 different subjects—many of them of an emergency nature, on behalf of 10 departments of government and 5 governmental boards or commissions.

CIVILIAN—44 separate announcements or appeals, on 12 different subjects or campaigns, on behalf of 11 civilian-operated war charities and service organizations.

If you could read the many letters of sincere appreciation which Imperial Oil has received from hard-driven officials in federal war departments, and from overworked volunteer organizers of a multitude of war charities, you'd realize how gratifying it must be not only to the Company itself, but to Imperial Oil employees, and agents and dealers as well—to be able to provide this extra wartime service for Canada through the medium of our hockey broadcasts.

Naturally, that service will continue to be available during the coming season to those who are directing Canada's war effort.

And so, at the opening of another new season, we can do no better than repeat last year's promise, that again—from coast to coast and overseas—your Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts will "carry on in the national service."

We hope, and believe, that you will continue to enjoy them.

"ACCENT ON YOUTH"

For several successive winters, there has been a steadily increasing proportion of 'teen-age boys burning up the ice in the N.H.L. The records already speak for the names of youngsters who have jumped straight out of amateur ranks into professional stardom—like Boston's "Kraus" and Canadian "Razie Dazie." Here just a few of the best recent rookies who, in their 'teens, went their way into the spotlight in competition with experienced stars. And as fast as they reach military age, there are others coming up. So hockey carries on.

Last season, during one of the broadcasts, Court Hogan asked his Hot Store colleagues for an explanation of this modern phenomenon—the increasing excellence of younger players. The consensus of their opinion was that the rookies of today—unlike those of ten or twelve years ago—have had the benefit of clever, experienced players to learn from, and to play longer. They've been hearing their hockey the right way, right from the start.

"We could get a lot more work done, if you weren't a clock-watcher, Miss Smith!"

EVERYWHERE IN CANADA

To Our Dealers: These Imperial Oil Hockey Broadcasts are your broadcasts. They were originally undertaken to promote the sale of the products you represent, and of the services you offer. But today, neither you nor we can press the sale of petroleum and rubber products. And in any event, the Hockey Broadcast has a much more vital duty to perform today, in serving Canada's war effort to the best of its ability. But it is still your broadcast. When better days return, we feel sure your customers will remember how hockey carried on...will remember the service it performed...and will give you your due share of the credit.

Air Power

by
Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky

Our notable success in the attack on Wake Island is already being used by some military writers to support the contention that a combination of naval force and air force provides the proper answer to the Pacific problem. It seems to me worth while therefore to analyze that combination a little further.

Social Credit Will Nominate Is Report Here

The Social Credit party is planning nominating convention for northern Dominion and provincial constituencies, according to information received in Edmonton Wednesday.

The Dominion ridings where conventions probably will be held are Peace River and Athabasca. Both these seats are now held by Liberal members. Peace River provincial constituency will hold its nominating convention at Grimshaw on Nov. 16. It has been announced, and it was learned that Grimshaw constituency will nominate a provincial candidate before the end of the year. This seat in the Legislative Assembly is held by a Liberal member.

At these conventions both Dominion and provincial final selection of candidates will be made, replacing selection by the "board system" used formerly, where choice of a candidate was made by an advisory board which had representation from the government and members of the Social Credit League. It is understood this change in procedure was discussed and approved at the recent Social Credit caucus held in Edmonton.

HOLD CONVENTIONS

Purpose of holding the nominating conventions is to strengthen party organization in ridings where members other than Social Credit are sitting. It is understood that other parts of the province where parties opposed to Social Credit hold seats will be across of Social Credit nomination meetings as early as possible.

Party members, however, deny there is any thought of a provincial election in 1944, even though candidates for many ridings will have been named.

One prominent party supporter said: "Other parties name their candidates months before an election is called. We feel the Social Credit party is at a disadvantage by not doing likewise."

Consider Extension Of Coast Fishing Limit to 10 Miles

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Possible extension of the three-mile limit for fishing off Canada's coast to 10 miles or an even greater distance was foreseen here yesterday by Hon. Ernest Bennett, federal minister of fisheries, as a measure to protect the Dominion's fishing industry and increase its revenue.

Said a move would largely prevent any recurrence of the situation existing before the war when huge Japanese "floating canneries" operated outside the three-mile limit off the British Columbia coast and carried away much choice fish.

It would also cut down considerably the amount of fish now caught by United States boats operating off the B.C. coast.

To begin with, it should be pointed out that the Wake engagement provides a kind of full-parade demonstration of the unfortunate division of air power, under which Americans are operating. On at least seven previous occasions Wake Island has been bombed by "Army Liberators." On the present occasion, it was bombed by "Navy Liberators."

The fact that deSeversky our nation's heavy bombardment planes are thus artificially divided under different commands has no warrant in logic. It indicates the kind of competition and the kind of overlapping fields of operation that can certainly do no good, and may work a lot of harm.

In the second place, an airman who reads the official and unofficial descriptions of the engagement is obliged to ask some pertinent questions. The fact that four-engine bombers took part in this and previous attacks on Wake proves that the island is within comfortable reach of our land-based aviation. Why, in that case, was it necessary to bring air power to the island on carriers under strong naval escort? Is there anything about the carrier-based airplanes that do that cannot be done better and more economically by land-based airplanes?

EXTRAORDINARY USE

The carriers came to Wake Island to bring either bombing strength, fighters, or both. If bombing strength was the prime consideration, then it was a most extravagant use of aviation. Bombers operating from on board ships in the nature of the case possess relatively small bombing capacity, besides being more vulnerable in that they carry less armor and less defensive artillery than four-engine bombers operating from land.

If the primary purpose was to bring fighter aviation to the battle area, for the rendezvous with land bombers for the latter's protection, even the expenditure was not less marked. In the present case, the Hellcats and other fighters were able to neutralize enemy defenses from the outset because of the surprise element. But under normal circumstances their main strength would have been needed to protect the "floating bases" and other ships, leaving no margin for support of the bombers.

MORE EFFECTIVE

One does not have to be a master mathematician to figure out that the economic potential represented by a strong naval task force—carriers, carrier planes, battle-ships, cruisers and other escorting vessels—if converted into four-engine bombers would be vastly more effective. Not only would such bombers provide a lot more destructive weight, but their aggregate defensive power would exceed the total that could be made available from carriers.

One more factor needs to be considered. When an enemy is attacked by air power alone, only his fighter planes are drawn into combat. His bomber force remains dormant in fact, if itself represents a target for the attackers. But when we bring some of the air power on board ships under naval escort, we are providing convenient targets for the enemy's bombers. In terms of attrition, therefore, attack by combined surface and air forces works out to the benefit of the defending forces, whereas attack from the air alone, by land-based aviation, operates to the advantage of the attacker.

There is also a tendency to exaggerate the strategic importance of a pinpoint on the Pacific surface like Wake Island even if we succeed in taking it. As a take-off platform for strategic attack on Japan itself Wake is useless. It is isolated from the sources of air power thus presenting a difficult supply problem. It is too small to accommodate a strategic attack large enough to be decisive against Japan.

DISPERSAL BEST

Besides, as soon as we can bomb Japan from Wake, it will be no less true that Japan could bomb Wake. And it could do so far more effectively because it could apply immense bombing strength since it would be working from air bases close to the source of supplies. In fact, the bigger the air force and the supplies we store on small islands like Wake, the more concentrated and volatile is the target. In a sense we would therefore be turning the island into a large and highly volatile carrier, with one exception that it cannot be sunk though it can be exploded. Experience has proved over and over again that dispersal and no concentration is the best passive defense against the blows of air power.

Minister Lauds Help Received From Laborers

Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture, Wednesday lauded farm labor arrangements made this fall, saying the provincial government was more than satisfied with help received from soldiers working under the farm duty plan, with help from volunteer harvesters, Mr. MacMillan added he has already expressed great satisfaction with results obtained to him, Humphrey Mitchell, Dominion labor minister.

"The harvesters from Ontario were a fine group of men. They worked well. Generally speaking, soldiers on farm duty working in Alberta fields also did an excellent job," the minister said.

Plans for pooling farm help this year were much improved over last year, Mr. MacMillan said. One or two details still could stand better, he said, and the Dominion government has agreed to consider their points.

During the peak of harvest work, 1,200 Canadian harvesters and 415 soldiers were mobilized to work on farms in Alberta. In addition, hundreds of men in the services were detailed to work on the farms.

"These men returned to their own farms. Their conditions, however, was expected, and pitched right in the work of an invaluable assistance," he said.

Alberta Wheat Loadings Are Up By 401 Per Cent.

Wheat loadings in Alberta in the first seven months of 1943 were 1,342,000 bushels, compared with 1,000,000 bushels in the same period last year, and loadings of other grain shows an even greater increase.

CHAPTER XVIII
HALF-DAZZLED, Imhof staggered to his feet from the ground where he had been flung.

"Pat! Pat!" he called, dread in his heart.

He remembered his torch, got it out and tried the switch. Light-blessed light-rayed forth and Pat's face, with the long-lashed lids down and the lips parted, sprang white as out of the dark. He put the torch down and bent over her.

"Pat! Pat!" he called pleadingly. The parted lips moved, the lashes quivered. Imhof said:

"Are you hurt? Are you hurt, dear?" he asked anxiously.

"Hurt?" Her head was clearing. She moved tentatively. "I don't think so."

"Can you sit up?" He lifted her and supported her in his arms.

"Where are we?" she asked.

Imhof himself did not truly know. Still supporting her, he picked up the torch and flashed it around. They seemed to be in a sort of crypt or subterranean, underlying part of the shelter which had itself been the strengthened and converted cellar of a large building.

Suddenly Imhof sniffed.

He released Pat and made a quick circuit of the subterranean to locate the source of the leak.

Pat, who was now sufficiently recovered to stand and who had caught the odor, joined him in the search.

"Here, lay!" she cried. "It's strongest here."

Imhof sprang to her side and searched the fall back by inch with his torch. He halted the lantern in a shadow in the masonry close to the line where wall and ceiling had formerly joined. It was a crevice

Imhof plugged the pipe with his finger, holding the position till his arm ached, then swiftly changed to the other hand. For some time he alternated thus. But it became tiring. He grew numbed, ached with the constant stretching. He could not keep it up much longer. And the pipe was far beyond Pat's reach for her to relieve him.

"We have to risk an explosion," Imhof gasped through clenched teeth. "Put your arms around me. Grab hold of the railcoat and pull it down and snug it in tight around us. . . . Close your eyes open your mouth, bury your face against me and hold on hard! All set, dear?"

At Pat's muffled "Yes," he struck the match. Instantly they were enveloped in a roaring burst of flame that sprang out of nowhere, buffeting them on every side, and as swiftly was gone. They rocked in the blast of the explosion, but Imhof managed to keep the pipe plugged with his indurated finger. There was a patting noise, a plaster, but nothing heavier was brought down.

"Okay," said Imhof. They released each other and threw off the railcoat. They were free and he pulled out another match, reaching for it with his free hand.

Imhof's finger from the lighted gas. It flared out in a long, steady jet.

He was reminded to something. The incriminating papers which he hadn't yet destroyed and which were still in his pocket, where they had been hurriedly thrust when the air-raid siren sounded. One by one they crumbled into black dust as he fed them carefully to the flame.

It was Imhof who first noticed that the air was becoming foul. He raised Pat, who was drowning and made her stand. The flaring jet was snuffed at their lifeline. With horrified fascination, they watched its single, greedy tip.

How long they stood there they never knew. Suddenly Pat's fingers tightened on Imhof's hand. "Do you hear?" Her voice trembled.

Imhof listened and faintly made out what her sharp ears had been detecting. Thump, tap, tap—tap—tap. Thump, tap. Then the ring of steel on stone or concrete. Somewhere overhead.

On the roof of the shelter. They sprang up and he shouted at the top of their lungs. It seemed to them that the rhythm of the sounds quickened in answer.

At last, with a ringing thrust, something punched through the roof, sending debris flying to the ground. The brightness of steel flashed a second in the flickering light, then was withdrawn.

"Anyone down there?" a voice called.

"Yes!" Imhof shouted back. "Stand away below while we widen this opening."

To be accomplished of falling bricks and chunks of concrete falling quickly away. Through it Imhof and Pat saw the yellow beams of lanterns.

"We'll have a rope ankled through there, standing in the look of a second rope. The feet, legs and body of a man in a convict's uniform descended bit by bit to stop with a jerk, revolving slowly.

Imhof reached out to check the movement, a number on his chest flashed and wound out of sight, the number 38. After another half turn the man stopped his revolution and dropped wholly into view, his face level with Imhof, not 10 feet away.

Imhof stared, and still stared incredulously. Involuntarily, in a low voice, he started out a name: "Eazel!"

McCoy Health Service

Many of the letters received from readers of this column have been from those who are opposed to the use of meat in any form. In other words, from vegetarians. There is much to be said in a purely vegetarian diet, but it is not easy to find sufficient of the vegetable proteins being taken by the advocate of a wholly vegetable diet.

The inclination is to neglect to include in the diet enough of these vegetable proteins to replace that which is lost when meat is left out of the daily menu. In examining many patients over a period of years, I have found large numbers of vegetarians who proudly refused to partake of any form of animal protein, meat, fish or fowl, and yet their blood pressure and general enervation and debility could be directly placed as attributable to protein starvation. It is not my intention at this time to endeavor to convert my vegetarian friends into being meat eaters, but I do want to draw their attention to the fact that protein is absolutely necessary to the continuance of life and it cannot be satisfactorily replaced by any other dietary factor. All living cells are dependent for their existence upon this protein substance.

Scientists have assigned to meat, milk and fish the highest protein value, representing 100 white corn and wheat proteins were given values of 20 and 40. The population of certain parts of China derive a large part of their protein from the soy bean, and to a negligible extent from the animal protein. When it is pointed out that on the average some 40 per cent of the protein of the American diet is derived from wheat, corn, and about ten per cent from vegetables, making 50 per cent from proteins of low value, for growth it is easily understood that the use of animal proteins for children and for convalescents is a necessity.

However, the vegetarian is still in a position to look for his proteins in the form of nuts, especially Brazil nuts, milk and cheese, soy beans, eggs and so on and these may be considered to be complete proteins.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 100 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

School Board Invests $60,000 In War Bonds

The Edmonton School Board will invest $60,000 in Canada's Fifth Victory Loan. The money will be taken from the surplus funds of the school board. The necessary by-law was passed at the board meeting Tuesday night.

A delegation from the Mountain Home and School Association appeared before the board to request the use of the gymnasium in the Westmount school for a sports program to be held three days a week under the supervision of a paid Y.M.C.A. instructor.

Spokesman for the delegation stated that the Home and School Association felt the present half-hour periods of sports in the school curriculum were not adequate and did not allow for the participation of all the smaller pupils. The association plans to conduct a larger sports program outside of school hours.

During the month of August the association sponsored a similar program of outdoor activities with a paid supervisor which proved successful. A questionnaire sent to parents in the district by the association showed the majority of parents were in favor of supervised sports for their children, the spokesman stated.

The board referred the matter to the finance committee and proposed that a sub-committee meet representatives of the Home and School Association to work out the details of the plan.

A letter was received by the board from the Edmonton Basketball League asking permission to use one of the school gymnasiums three nights a week as in previous seasons. The request was granted.

The report of the superintendent, R. S. Sheppard, on this to the board was in favor of the school systems in various large cities.

Truist M. M. Downey's motion amending the standing resolution regarding the status of teachers, who continue to teach after being married was discussed by the board and it was decided to present it to the Alberta School Trustees' Association with the recommendation it be presented to the government of Alberta to request the amendment of the Alberta School Act.

SEA CADET REQUEST
Trustee L. D. Hyndman, K.C., told the board he has been asked to approach them regarding permission for Sea Cadet officers and officials of the Navy League of Canada to address school boys on the opportunities offered them in the Sea Cadets.

The board discussed the matter thoroughly and decided that if military authorities were to be allowed to address the boys it must be done apart from school classes and the attendance of the children would be entirely voluntary. It was remarked that similar requests were expected from other military services and it was left to the superintendent to decide the most suitable time for speakers.

"Butterfly" Bomb New Nazi Weapon

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(CP)—A "butterfly bomb" that may be hung from trees in Germany's latest type of anti-personnel explosive. General announcement of its existence came when the government issued a warning it might explode at the slightest vibration. The bomb weighs four pounds and is usually of a yellow-black or green-grey color.

Crash Kills 17

FAIRMONT, Neb., Oct. 27.—(AP)—Seventeen men were killed and one parachuted to safety when two heavy bomber planes collided in the air near here Tuesday. The crash, reported on one of the planes, was thrown out of the plane and landed to descend safely by parachute.

Highland Group Elects Officers

To keep alive Highland dancing and to encourage the young people of today in learning the famous dances became the pledge of the Alberta Highland Dancing Association when it held its first meeting of the season Monday at the Crescent furniture store. Plans were made for future entertainment and social dances and a committee was elected for the annual Highland winter gathering—a competitive dancing event.

MacWhinnie, prominent fiddler for many years with the association, was elected president for the coming year. Other officers elected were: H. C. B. Gerard, vice-president; J. Cameron, secretary-treasurer; executive: A. D. Dobbs, W. Dunnet and J. Armstrong; hon. president, J. A. MacKinnon; patron, Mary Jane K.C. and J. C. MacDougall. Elected to the entertainment committee were: H. C. B. Gerard, R. MacPherson, Mrs. R. MacPherson, Miss Ella Dobbs, Mrs. Savage and Miss Betty Cairnes.

Properly Address Presents To Expedite Deliveries; Overseas Mail Closes Nov. 1

Adhering to the regulation weight of 11 pounds a parcel, packing it compactly and addressing correctly, facilitates the problem of the postal authorities in keeping the Christmas mail steadily moving in the direction of the men overseas.

Persons contemplating sending parcels overseas are reminded that the last mail to reach men overseas closes Nov. 1.

When addressing your parcel, print in block letters clearly and properly. It is advisable to use pen and ink in preference to indelible pencil. Here are some examples for addressing to Soldiers, Sailors and Airmen.

Predicts Increase Gold Prospecting

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 27.—(CP)—Gold prospecting will increase in Northwestern Ontario in 1944. Dr. H. Clare Norwood, Toronto, newly-appointed district geologist, said here yesterday. Dr. Norwood said his position had been created because of the growing importance of the district in mining development. He added he would direct his attention particularly to gold and iron in the St. Mary River region.

Gets Quart!
BALTIMORE, Oct. 27.—(AP)—If you don't believe your liquor dealer, try this.

A customer entered a Baltimore dispensary yesterday, pulled a Bible from his pocket, opened it and placed it on the counter. He told the clerk to place his hand on the Bible, adding "now swear you haven't any whisky."
